Reading Is Thinking 2005

Reading Comprehension Institute Denver, Colorado

July 20 and 21, 2005

Stephanie Harvey, author of Nonfiction Matters and Strategies That Work, invites you to spend two days at her fourth annual reading comprehension institute in sunny Denver, Colorado this summer. Steph was a classroom and special education teacher for 15 years and now works as a staff developer and national literacy consultant.

Come learn more about reading comprehension and the strategies that proficient readers use to understand what they read. Please join Steph for Reading Is Thinking 2005, her K-8 reading comprehension institute. Appropriate for teachers, librarians, staff developers, literacy coaches and administrators.

Workshop Features

- A comprehension overview,
- An exploration of explicit instructional approaches to teach reading comprehension,
- A variety of strategy lessons in fiction, nonfiction and poetry,
- A focus on teaching with short text as well as longer books,
- Time to read on your own and notice how adults understand what they read,
- Video clips of explicit comprehension instruction,
- A variety of children's work samples,
- Suggestions for assessment and evaluation, and
- Time to plan future instruction!
